Fact Sheet, IWPR #R499, March 2018

The Economic Status of Women in Louisiana

Women in Louisiana have made considerable advances in recent years but still face inequities that often prevent them from reaching their full potential. Since the 2004 Status of Women in the States report was published, the gender wage gap in Louisiana has narrowed, a higher percentage of women have bachelor's degrees, and a larger share of women live in poverty. Louisiana still ranks in the worst third in the nation for both women's Employment & Earnings and Poverty & Opportunity.

If current trends continue,
women in Louisiana will not see equal pay until the year
2115.¹

The difference between women's and men's median annual earnings, $15,500, would pay for 4.0 years
of community college tuition in Louisiana.²

Key Findings

- Louisiana's grade for women's Employment & Earnings, D-, has improved since the 2004 Status of Women in the States report (Table 1). Its grade for women's Poverty & Opportunity, D-, has improved since 2004.
- Women in Louisiana aged 16 and older who work full-time, year-round have median annual earnings of $34,500, which is 69.0 cents on the dollar compared with men who work full-time, year-round (Table 1). Black women earn just 47 cents for every dollar earned by White men (Table 2).
- If employed women in Louisiana were paid the same as comparable men, their poverty rate would be reduced by more than half and poverty among employed single mothers would also drop by more than half (Figure 1).³
- 56.1 percent of women in Louisiana aged 16 and older are in the labor force, compared with 63.0 percent of men (Table 1). Among women, Black women have the highest labor force participation rate, at 59.7 percent (Table 2).
- A growing share of employed women in Louisiana are in managerial or professional occupations. About 40 percent of women hold these positions, which tend to require a four-year degree and often have higher wages and employment benefits.
- In Louisiana, 36.5 percent of businesses in 2012 were owned by women, up from 27.4 percent in 2007.
- Approximately 25 percent of women aged 25 and older in Louisiana have a bachelor's degree or higher, an increase of about 6 percentage points since 2000 (Table 1).
- 86.8 percent of Louisiana's women aged 18 to 64 have health insurance coverage, which is below the national average for women of 89.4 percent (Table 1).
- Louisiana ranks 49th nationally for the share of women in poverty; 21.8 percent of women in the state aged 18 and older are in poverty, compared with 16.8 percent of Louisiana's men (Table 1).

Notes: N/A=not available. Median annual earnings use five-year American Community Survey data (2011-2016) downloaded from American Fact Finder. All other indicators are calculated using three years of data (2014-2016) from the American Community Survey. Racial groups are non-Hispanic. For the earnings data, Asian does not include Pacific Islander women and multiracial does not include women of another racial category; for all other indicators, Asian includes Pacific Islander and multiracial includes women of another racial or ethnic category. Calculated by the Institute for Women's Policy Research.

Median Annual Earnings for Women and Men in Louisiana Working Full-Time, Year-Round, by Race and Ethnicity, 2016

Notes: Calculated using three years of data (2014-2016) from the American Community Survey. Racial groups are non-Hispanic. Calculated by the Institute for Women's Policy Research.

NOTES

1. Linear projection based on rate of progress in closing the gender wage gap since 1959. Projection is based on the ratio of women's to men's earnings among full-time, year-round workers aged 16 and older. Calculations are based on the Decennial Censuses from 1960 through 2000, and 2001-2015 American Community Survey microdata.
2. The 2015-16 average undergraduate tuition and required fees for in-state, full-time students in degree-granting public two-year institutions in Louisiana is $3,919.
3. Comparable includes women and men of the same age and level of education, who work the same number of hours, and have the same urban/rural status.

About the Institute for Women's Policy Research

The Institute for Women's Policy Research (IWPR) conducts rigorous research and disseminates its findings to address the needs of women, promote public dialogue, and strengthen families, communities, and societies. The Institute's research strives to give voice to the needs of women from diverse ethnic and racial backgrounds across the income spectrum and to ensure that their perspectives enter the public debate on ending discrimination and inequality, improving opportunity, and increasing economic security for women and families. The Institute works with policymakers, scholars, and public interest groups to design, execute, and disseminate research and to build a diverse network of individuals and organizations that conduct and use women-oriented policy research. IWPR's work is supported by foundation grants, government grants and contracts, donations from individuals, and contributions from organizations and corporations. IWPR is a 501(c)(3) tax-exempt organization that also works in affiliation with the Program on Gender Analysis in Economics at American University.

About The Status of Women in the States

This Fact Sheet is a part of the Institute for Women's Policy Research's series on the status of women across the United States, begun in 1996. The Status of Women in the States project uses data from U.S. government and other sources to analyze women's status in each state and the United States overall, rank and grade states on a set of indicators for six topical areas, and provide additional data on women's status in states across the nation. The Institute for Women's Policy Research has published individual reports on the status of women since 1996 in each state and the District of Columbia. The reports have been used to highlight women's progress and the obstacles they continue to face and to encourage policy and programmatic changes that can improve women's opportunities.
